

Propylene Glycol

Propylene Glycol is a propanediol that exists as a clear, colourless and hygroscopic liquid and consists of propane where the hydrogens at positions 1 and 2 are substituted by hydroxyl groups. Propylene glycol is used as an organic solvent and diluent in pharmaceuticals and many other industrial applications.

Applications

- As Humectant, solvent, and preservative in Food and for Tobacco products.
- As Solvent in Pharma Industry
- De-Icing Agent
- Cosmetic Industry